Granted Absolute Decree By Justice Clabaugh-Interesting Depositions.

Snow swirled outside, and the wind rattled the long windows, but there was an atmosphere of warmth in Equity Court No. 1 when depositions in the cubic divorce action of Nins L. New-cld, erstwhile of the "Summer Widowers," and William O. Newbold, a nission man, unfolded a summerromance, a good detective story, nd, incidentally, resulted in making a "winter widower" out of the husband. Chief Justice Clabaugh granted an abditte diverce to the wife.

The husband flied the first suit for divorce, February 9 last, charging his wife desorted him without cause; spent a night in one of the leading hotels in Washington, and shortly afterward went to New York in search of theatrical fame. The bill recited the fact that the couple were married July 29, 1808, and lived together till October 20, month after Mr. Newbold's petition for divorce had been filed, Mrs. Newbold filed a counter bill, and named co-respondent, who, subsequently was referred to as "mother," witnesses siming that was the husband's pet une for his alleged affinity. Her bill was based principally on evidence prowas based principally on evidence procured by George F. Croissant, a young New Yorker, whom she met while a member of a theatrical troupe.

Detective work by Croissant, who is the son of a Gotham restaurant man, furnished the thrills in the testimony. He testified he met Mrs. Newbold one might in his father's cafe, opposite the Schubert Theater, where she was playing. She was dining with a girl member of the company.

Assuming the name of "Carson," Croissant came to Washington, obtained an introduction to Mr. Newbold, and soon ingratiated himself in the latter's confidence. They became chummy, according to the amateur sleuth's testimony They were much in each other's company, and the young commission man is alleged to have told many secrets to his companion, and to have taken him to call on "mother," who, it appeared in the testimony, formerly lived in the Virginia town where Mr. Newbold was born.

Became An Actress.

The depositions tell of the flash Mrs. Newbold made in the theatrical firmaent. From waitress in a Brooklyn, N. Y., restaurant she went on the stage, aring in the "Summer Widowers" for a few weeks, and then returned to less artistic means of earning a livelid, a position in a department store hood, a position in a department store in the metropolis being mentioned as the final effort to avoid adversity.

Jack Newbold, brother of the commission man, testified Mrs. Newbold sent him a telegram from New York for money. He also related how he had eaught to affect a reconciliation of the stuple.

Arrest of Waiter Solves Bag Robbery

NEW YORK, Jan. 12.—Charged with bringing stolen property into this State d with being a fugitive from justice, ul Werner, a waiter, of 249 West drty-fifth street, was sent to the mbs today to await the arrival of ex-Tombs today to await the arrival of extradition papers from New Jersey. It is alleged that on New Yeor's Eve he stole a gold mesh bag from Mrs. Jasper Lynch at a dance at the country club at Lakewood, N. J., and sold it to a dealer in old gold here for $45. When the bag was stolen Mrs. Lynch accused several of the guests, and two of the men present were threatened with being searched, as a result of which are now suing Mr. and Mrs. Lynch for defamation of character.

Want More Italians In Sacred College

MILAN, Jan. 12.-A special dispatch printed today in the Corriere Della Sera, from its Vatican correspondent, de-clares the Italian cardinals have peti-tioned Pope Pius to appoint three more Italians to the Sacred College, in order to give them a majority and prevent the election of a foreigner to the papacy.

According to the dispatch, the Roman prelates fear two more Americans may be elevated at the Easter Consis-tory. In that event, they believe, it is entirely possible an American may suc-ceed Pope Pius.

NOW IN CONGRESS AFTER LONG WAIT

G. Curry and H. B. Ferguson Represent Latest State Admitted to Union.

After dreaming of Statehood for half a century. New Mexico at last has voting representation in the National House of Representatives. Congressmen George Curry and H. B. Ferguson have taken the oath of office as members from the "baby State" have been assumed their sasts and can vote just signed their seats, and can vote just as proudly as the Representative from New York, Pennsylvania, or one of the original thirteen States.

Congressman Curry was formerly the governor of the Territory of New Mexi-co, and when the Territory was ad-mitted to Statehood it was natural that Mr. Curry should be in on the ground

Mr. Curry should be in on the ground floor politically.

The same applies to Mr. Ferguson, who has served as Delegate from New Mexico. There's a lot of difference, however, in being a Delegate from a Territory and a bona fide Congressman from a State, the latter carrying with it the voting power and other powers and influences.

New Mexico had considerable trouble in shaping its consitution to suit the President and Congress, but everything was finally adjusted the other day, Mr. Taft signed the enabling act, and Speaker Clark swore in Mr. Curry and Mr. Ferguson. Their advent in the House was the signal for applause, for everybody welcomed the entry of the forty-seventh State.
